

Alfhildr

FEMALE HALFLING MAGE

After groundbreaking discoveries in viticulture born of arcane experimentation, Alfhildr earned a full scholarship to the prestigious College of Life & Luminaries. Long drawn to the art of healing, she now hoped to apply her gifts more practically. With that resolve, she packed her belongings and set out for Kursh. She left several weeks before classes started, wanting to get her bearings in the city first. On the road with all her belongings on her back, she was viciously attacked by a group of Needlefur Jackals. She narrowly escaped death that day, arriving at the city gates with only her shredded dress and her throwing knife Starpiercer. She spent several months recovering in Kursh hospital, missing the start of her school year. Once she was at full strength again, she instead decided to help others avoid her fate by joining the Order of Eventide.

STARTING EQUIPMENT

- Dual-wielding 1A Spectral Throwing Knives: "Starpiercer" and "Serenade"
- 2d6 Glowstone